You're stuck in a nightmare and can't wake up. You wake up in a strange room, with no idea what's happening. Where are you? Why are you here? What's going to happen to you? This is a horror game that tells the story of a mysterious girl called Alice. She awakes in the middle of a night, where she can't remember anything. She is stuck in a nightmare. She has no idea what's going on. Somehow, a strange creature called an Inner Friend has taken over her body. Soon she will figure out what happened to her, but there's a certain demon that has some particular plans for her. Your job is to help Alice wake up, without killing her, and explore the unnerving world around her. The gameplay focuses on solving puzzles and finding your way to reach the next mission. You will also deal with distinct emotions and try to find the best solution. Your brain will try to understand what is going on and ultimately save you. The gameplay is inspired by portal, Noclip games or Telltale Games, but it's also influenced by weird Japanese games like RE: Altered Dimensions and Coconut Crisis. And here's some others: Noclip levels Coconut Crisis RE: Altered Dimensions Touchdown Gravity War Bubble Experiment Doom 3 Link's Awakening Tomb Raider The Walking Dead You will need to deal with: Neurotic need to kill Fear of (ill)fate Animal instincts Fear of death Fear of spiders Fear of stairs And much more... What's new in the story? 1) New Characters 2) New Areas 3) New Puzzles And much more... I'm bad at words, so I have no choice but to show you instead of telling you what's inside the game: the artworks and the animation. The way Alice looks is a mix of 3D and 2D. The textures are hand-drawn. You can see her human body at the beginning of the trailer, but after a few minutes, her body completely transforms into a 3D character with a spooky face. And it really looks like Alice from a certain point of view. Let's have a look at the animations. The animations are inspired from

What's new:

The first step Our first step consists in recording the direction at  $O$  during the propagation of the photon: let  $\mathbf{u}_I$  be the unit vector pointing along the surface  $I$ . We also have the directions  $\mathbf{u}_{II}$  and  $\mathbf{u}_{III}$  of the unit vectors parallel to the cones  $I$  and  $II$ . The angles  $\theta_I$  and  $\theta_O$  have their definitions on Fig. [ORB]. We define  $x$  the position of the point  $O$ , vector  $\mathbf{u}_{II}$  its normal on the surface  $I$  at  $O$ , and  $\mathbf{u}_{III} \times \mathbf{u}_{II}$  the shadow vector at  $O$  point (Fig. [ORB]). The vector  $\mathbf{v}$  is deduced from the vectors  $\mathbf{u}_{II}$  and  $\mathbf{u}_{III}$  using the following relations:

$$\mathbf{v} = \cos(\theta_O) \mathbf{u}_I + \sin(\theta_O) \mathbf{u}_{III}$$
