Helicobacter pylori (HP) status and histologic findings were assessed in endoscopically normal corpus-antrum mucosa from 150 patients and 150 controls. HP positivity and histologic changes were not related to extragastric signs in the upper gastrointestinal tract or to abnormal results on liver function tests. The HP-positive rate among patients without symptoms was significantly lower than that among controls (14% vs. 43%; P = 0.0017). Thus, HP detection is associated with extragastric signs such as chest pain and bronchitis. Furthermore, the present study confirmed previous reports on the prevalence of HP-positive status in asymptomatic patients.Q: Recording audio stops at end of a call. It could be called the most "in-demand" streaming service of all time, but Netflix has been in such high demand for its unlimited supply of streaming content that it's barely available at all. And if you do manage to get your hands on the service, you probably know exactly what it's like to stand in line for as long as it takes for Netflix to load a single episode or movie. But all of that could soon change, as the site Deadline reports that the streaming giant has reportedly been put up for sale to a group of investors. "Both sides are interested in a deal," a source with knowledge of the negotiations told Deadline, and because of Netflix's vast size, the deal could be worth $100 billion. The company is said to be asking for between $50 billion and $75 billion, and is being courted by two groups of investors. The Wall Street Journal's source said one group of investors isn't interested in the business so much, but instead is interested in a sale of the company's content. Netflix declined to comment. In addition to the rumored sale, another media report says that the company is in talks with Disney to help with their $500 billion deal. If negotiations go well, Netflix could soon be worth $200 billion. That would
